

Life continues in Muttur

This week our photographer KAVINDRA PERERA captures life in Muttur, where the main activity of the day is a trip to Trincomalee, in the ship, Seruva 2. The residents of Muttur, the majority of whom, are Muslims, depend on Trincomalee for their main supplies, and are grateful to the security forces for enabling them to make this quintessential journey to Trincomalee to do their daily shopping.

Innocence enraptured in a world of violence

Safe in the hands of "Army uncles"

Waiting for the arrival of Seruva 2 to take them to Trincomalee

On their way back from Trincomalee

On vigil against enemy attacks
