

Dayeta Kirula: A roaring success

Enter the Lion: Thousands of people flocked at the entrance

Taking a look: President Mahinda Rajapaksa at the Dayeta Kirula Exhibition

Checking the noose: Prime Minister Ratnasiri Wickramanayaka at a stall that displays the gallows

A look through their eyes: A young boy checking out a surveillance equipment displayed at one of the stalls of the Forces

Media freedom: This year 'Media Day' was celebrated at the Exhibition.

Sweet pictures: Children participating at the Mihira Childrens' Art competition at the Exhibition

As the sun and moon rise so will the Lake House: The Lake House stall displayed a variety of printing machines that gave a glimpse of how it was done in the past

It was a roaring success and a priceless opportunity for many a thousand visitors to see the modern world and its latest technology and innovations. Dayeta Kirula, the educational and developmental exhibition which concluded on Friday had a turn out of over one million visitors, organisers said. It showcased the modern military hardware of security forces and high tech innovations of local inventors.

Pix by
Saman Mendis
Thilak Perera
Saman Sri Wedage

