Twelve vie for Ms Talent

BY MAHES PERERA

The heat is on at the competition to crown Ms Lanka 2010. The Mini titles are being swiftly worked off with the contestants displaying healthy competition and enjoying every moment in the selection process. On Friday October 1 the Mini titles selection for Ms Catwalk 1 and Ms Catwalk 2 were held at the Sri Lanka Exhibition and Convention Centre.

Yesterday was interesting and revealing. The Mini title Ms Talent was staged and the hitherto hidden talents of the contestants were brought into the limelight. Some danced, some sang much to the surprise, of the audience present who enjoyed every moment of it. We are featuring them for your appreciation. They displayed no stage fright.

Today at 11.00 a.m. the Ms Traditional and Ms Personality Mini titles will be staged at the SLECC. So make sure you are present to cheer your favourite contestant to gain selection for the Mini titles.

The make-up team from Technique International who were responsible for transforming the contestants into glowing beauties are Nirmala Disanayake, Mary Pieris, Thushari Rajapaksha, Imashi Abeyasingha, Dhari-ni Jayawardena and Sarika Tissara. Putting the contestants through their paces to face the all important finale is the well-known choreographer Ithi Pieris whose invaluable work behind the scenes has instilled a lot of confidence in the contestants to face the critical eyes of the judges.

Ms Lanka 2010 for Ms Asia 2011 will be crowned at a glittering pageant on December 11 at the BMICH. Since the finale which was scheduled to be held in November is now in December the Raffle "In aid of the blind Choir and Women's Wing of SLFUH" to help purchase a cori-ope making machine, is now postponed to November 15, 2010.

Keep sending in your votes for the Sunday Observer Most Popular Contestant. The response is tremendous. Who will be the winner? Well, your guess is good as mine.

The Sunday Observer, Sri Lanka's leading english newspaper with the largest circulation is in collaboration with Technique International for the presentation of this colourful and glittering pageant. The other sponsors are Pico Events, softlogic, Sterling Flowers and Trendy wear.
