Sri Lanka cricketers took time off their busy schedules at playing fields to test their skills in a different field - fashion, for a worthy cause. Sri Lanka's premier fashion label FH Studio Collection was the men's wear partner at the recent 'Light of Change' charity fashion show at the Water's Edge last week. MAS Holdings launched the charity program titled 'Light of Change' which saw some of Sri Lanka's top cricketers, including skipper Kumar Sangakkara, Mahela Jayawardene and Muttiah Muralitharan, walking the ramp accompanied by Sri Lankan female models. This was perhaps the first time that Sri Lanka has seen an event of this magnitude. It was a rare opportunity of seeing all current cricketing heroes look their best at a single event. Hameed's FH Studio Group Brand Manager, Leroy J. Ebert said that all parties involved in the fashion show rendered their services free as it was a worthy cause.

It was a memorable experience for all as Sri Lanka's cricketing icons figured in a range of smart, casual, party and ceremonial wear with each item specially designed for the cricketers by the country's premier men's fashion wear people.
