

Men's 4x100-Metre Team Track Relay - Jamaica was dominant on the track again in London, highlighted by the men's 4x100-metre relay record. The real-life version of The Flash Usain Bolt capped off his personal Olympics schedule by helping his team finish the relay in 36.86 seconds, .20 seconds faster than the United States, which finished second. This record-breaking race marked the third time since 2008 that the Jamaican team had broken the record.

Americans Carmelita Jeter, Bianca Knight, Allyson Felix and Tianna Madison celebrate after winning gold and setting a new world record of 40.82 in the women's 4x100m relay final at the London 2012 Olympic Games.

Women's 4x100-metre relay - The world record of 41.37 seconds had survived since 1985. Team USA smashed the record in 40.82 seconds to win gold.

Men's 800-metre run - David Rudisha was expected to win the men's 800. Still, besting his own world record by 0.10 seconds was quite impressive. Considering that he's only 23 years, Rudisha could potentially break the 1:40.00 mark in Rio.

200-Metre Breaststroke Swimming - Rebecca Soni dominated her competition in the 200-metre breaststroke final and finished with a time of two minutes and 19.59 seconds. Soni achieved one of her life goals, broke the 200-metre breaststroke record twice and earned her country a gold medal in the process.

Women's 4x100-Metre Medley Relay- The USA had the fourth-fastest qualifying time of 3:58.88 without their best racers. In the final, everything once again came together and the Americans hold world record with a time of 3:52.05.

London 2012 Records tumble

62 Kilograms, Combined One of the most consistent performances in weightlifting, North Korea's Kim Un Guk added the world record to his repertoire after setting the snatch Olympic record for his first lift. Kilograms/lbs: 327 kilos (721 pounds).

Pix : AFP

The South Koreans broke their own team score during the rankings round of men's team archery with 2,087 points.

Men's 25-metre Rapid Fire Pistol - Alexei Klimov broke his own world record with 592 points in the qualification round of the men's 25-metre rapid fire pistol.

Men's 100-Metre Breaststroke - Cameron van der Burgh delivered a world-record performance, in 58.46 seconds.